G20 declaration a 'coup' for PM Modi, world media says is also eyeing a Guinness World Record. The saplings will be of commercial utility which will bring in an estimated revenue of over Rs 5,000 crore within 8-10 years, as reported. Assam is fast losing its green cover. The State had over 30 per cent of its area under forests in the early 2000s but in these two decades, it has lost more than half, which has also made the summers hotter. These one crore trees in the next 2-3 years will have a positive impact on the climate of Assam. The Government must ensure that these saplings are well cared for, because it has been seen in the past that such missions have not been very fruitful due to the lackadaisical attitude of the administration. - Yours etc., NOOPUR BARUAH, Tezpur.

PM-USHA mission

Sir, - The Prime Minister's Uchhatar Siksha Abhiyan (PM-USHA) is a visionary programme that can be a boon for colleges in our State, addressing critical areas while aligning with the goals set forth in the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020.

The PM-USHA initiative is an effort to improve the existing quality of education in our colleges. It is heartening to see the Government's commitment to creating an atmosphere conducive to research and innovation. This is an essential step towards nurturing intellectual growth.

A notable aspect of the PM-USHA initiative is its emphasis on multidisciplinary education. It encourages students to explore diverse fields of study to broaden their horizon. The focus on skilling and vocational training is a practical move. This empowers students to be job-ready upon graduation, thereby contributing to our State's economic development. The provision for infrastructure development is a commendable step that will benefit both students and educators. Ensuring access to higher education for all is a fundamental principle of the NEP 2020, and the PM-USHA initiative appears to be aligned with this objective. It is heartening to know that this initiative will prioritize accessibility, allowing students from diverse backgrounds to pursue higher education without undue barriers. - Yours etc., MAMUN AZAM BARBHUIYA, Principal, Haji Anfar Ali College, Doboka, Hojai.
